Youngest Premier

Tomorrow London greets for the first time Mr. Hugh Shearer (inset), since April Jamaica's Prime Minister and I believe, the youngest man in the Commonwealth of that rank.

He is certainly one of its most stylish Premiers. For many years a protégé of Sir Alexander Bustamante, Mr. Shearer has the air and properties of a thoroughly successful business executive. (He was a union man.)

His Ministers for Agriculture and Trade are coming with him. In Whitehall Mr. Wilson, Mr. Thomson at Commonwealth Relations, Mr. Mulley at the Foreign Office and Lord Shepherd are on the visiting list.

This looks like talk about our prospects of joining Europe, with Lord Shepherd on hand to discuss recent events in Anguilla.
