B.W.I. Federation

'Trinidad should be more receptive'

Gleaner Trinidad Correspondent PORT OF SPAIN, March 1: After weeks of interviewing legislators, trade unionists, men in Municipal and County Council politics, businessmen, leaders of the East Indian minority and ordinary men and women about the streets, your correspondent has concluded that Trinidad should be more receptive to Federation than any other British Caribbean Colony, including British Guiana.

It is an incontrovertible fact that in every other home in Trinidad there are personal and family links with all the other Eastern Caribbean territories. Men occupying high governmental positions, members of the Medical and legal professions, hail from outside Colonies.

In Trinidad's judiciary where there are seven judges three are Trinidadians, while four are sons of Barbados, British Guiana and St. Lucia. A Jamaican Dr. A. A. Peet is Director of Medical Services, while Attorney General Clifford Inniss is a Barbadian.

As "Atilla the Hun" cynsponian, quipped the other day in his ditty, "Trinidad's already federated."

The great distance (1,200 miles) separating these sister islands, and lack of inter-island shipping service, are the chief snags in the way of closer relationship between Jamaica and Trinidad.

It has been found that the general population here is not vitally interested in Federation. They are apathetic as most masses anywhere would be to vital political questions.

Two factions

There are only two real factions against Federation here. First, there is a small group of middle-class East Indians who have just attained middle class and professional status and gone into politics.

This group sees the prospects of continuing to exploit the East Indian racial vote and feels that through that vote, they would have more power in Trinidad than if they were merged into a Federation where the bulk of the people are not East Indians. This group has been trying to whip up hostility on the part of the East Indian masses in Trinidad, but the Indian masses here are apathetic toward the question, so far.

There is another group comprising aspiring legislators who, so far, have only been in municipal politics. Disillusioned and who have been planking their political opposition to Labour Minister Albert Gomes, accredited Federation champion. Their objection to Federation is to be found in the slogans: "No Federation without Self-Government" and "The New Federation Would Only be a Glorified Crown Colony."

Federation: B.G. urged to join in talks

Gleaner B.G. Correspondent

GEORGETOWN, B.G. February 28: Mr. Eric S. Stoby, Vice President of the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce, suggested at the Chamber's annual general meeting that Government be urged to further consider the possibility of sending a representative to the West Indies Conference on Federation to be held in Trinidad in March.

Mr. Stoby declared that history was being made, and reminded members that more than four years ago the Chamber had supported a resolution for Federation with two limitations. Urging the Government to send a representative, Mr. Stoby said: "It is highly important that a subject of this nature should not be neglected by British Guiana. We should not be outside while history is being created."
